Weekly status:

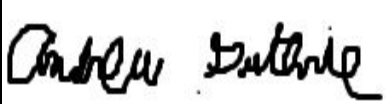

This week we met for the first time, established our regular meeting times, established regular advisor meeting times, established a high level breakdown of our work, established what skills would potentially be necessary, and got to know each other's biography in detail. A meeting was conducted with the sponsor, and another method of achieving the overall goal of signal identification was discovered. We met with our advisor to speak about the project at a high level and discuss the issue of intellectual property. Individual work this week focused on setting up a Linux environment and testing the systems we're going to be using, especially the GNU Radio environment.
